Of all split level homes, the bi-level split has the most exterior versatility. Depending on how much effort and expense you are willing to put forth, the bi-level can resemble a contemporary, a colonial, or a Tudor, or southwest, Oriental, a saltbox – whatever – but be prepared to “think outside the box.” This Multi-Level home provides the potential for great interior drama and excitement! Staggered floor plans give the home a multi-dimensional, open yet sectioned feel inside, while varied rooflines often accentuate the exterior.
